

Options for Ongoing Pregnancy or Retained Gestational Sac on Ultrasound After Medication Abortion* (which occurs <1% of the time)

*Ultrasound is not routinely needed for a medication abortion. An ultrasound is indicated if the follow-up Beta hCG does not drop more than 50% or if the history makes you suspicious that the pregnancy was not expelled. Thickened, heterogeneous endometrium is normal ultrasound finding post med ab.

 Expectant Management: Follow-up in 2-4 weeks

Repeating misoprostol 800mcg is successful about 85% of the time.
